

Only in the South

I'm driving along at 65 miles an hour (the speed limit), minding my own business, when outta nowhere there's this big crack in my windshield!!

I swerved right, and then left, and it was still right there!!

There just ain't NO words for this.